

Another Presidential Ambiguity.

The frankness with which Secretary Morton has defined "sound money," a catch-phrase of the Wall street clique, meaning gold monometallism, and his loquacious denunciation of all who refuse to accept the single gold standard, has evidently frightened the President.

In his last interview, which appeared in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, Secretary Morton expressed the extreme views of the gold standard advocates. He not only advocated a declaration in favor of the gold standard and a repudiation of all "silver coinage fallacies," but he denounced all who are dodging the issue and affirmed that "those who are for sound currency on a gold basis ought to have the courage to say so and abide by the results of their declaration."

This excessive frankness is too damaging to the cause of Wall Street in the Democratic party to be passed by in silence. It is in the nature of an attack on the President for the ambiguity of his recent letter. Hence a statement is put forth by the President repudiating Morton as his mouthpiece.

It should be noted, however, that he does not repudiate Morton's opinions. He merely says that he is not responsible for Morton's utterances and can speak for himself. He does not rebuke Morton as he rebuked Carlisle when the latter declared his intention of paying silver obligations in silver, by a vigorous expression of the opposite intention.

The people are compelled to guess whether his statement is prompted by anger at Secretary Morton's inopportune frankness or by opposition to his uncompromising support of gold monometallism. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
